Since their inception in 2009, Patriot Paving, Inc. has earned a reputation as one of Southern California's top asphalt construction and maintenance companies. As a Disabled Veteran Business Enterprise (DVBE), Patriot Paving performs all aspects of asphalt paving construction from small pothole repairs to large-scale new construction projects.

In addition to their highly skilled staff, Patriot Paving also owns and maintains a fleet of today's finest equipment. Their fleet includes two LeeBoy paving machines, with the brand new LeeBoy 8616B being their most recent purchase. Joe Draper is the owner and president of Patriot Paving and he handles most of the equipment purchases. "We prefer the LeeBoy brand because they are small and versatile for things like parking lot construction, but our 8616B can also be utilized on the larger paving jobs," says Draper. "Our new LeeBoy 8616B lays down a great mat with a Legend Screed system that opens wide enough to pave 14 foot paths. The Join Matcher automatically matches joints, whether on multiple passes or on a parking lot or two-lane road."

Patriot Paving works primarily from Bakersfield down for agencies like Caltrans and on prevailing wage projects, as well as for school districts, churches and a long list of other public and private entities. I work with Steve Kekich at Nixon-Egli and he has always been a man of his word, consistently following through with what he says he's going to do," says Draper. "The service and parts department has also been there for us with prompt service and excellent parts availability. Nixon-Egli Equipment Co. and LeeBoy pavers are second to none."
